ANTIGUA AND BARBUDA

A Little Bit of Paradise

7th Edition

A spectacular, pictorial insight into a vibrant Caribbean nation. More than two hundred photographic images capture the many aspects of life in this twin-island state. Blessed with warm tropical sunshine, soothing trade winds, crystal-clear waters and lush vegetation – and with a beach for every day of the year – Antigua and Barbuda really is a little bit of paradise. And this vision of paradise comprises palm-fringed coves in Antigua and miles of deserted beach in Barbuda. Away from the beach, history and artistry combine in the nation's annual Carnival, where pageantry and 'pan' is a vivacious celebration of culture set to the sounds of calypso music. Antigua and Barbuda also attracts sailing enthusiasts from across the globe, and it plays host to a number of events including Antigua Sailing Week, which is the Caribbean's oldest regatta. It is said that the world's new economic frontier is the ocean and Antigua and Barbuda offers enormous potential for economic development and investment in this 'Blue Economy'. This vision of Paradise on Earth is for everyone – residents, visitors and investors – and this book will provide an exceptional insight into the nation's history, culture, people and potential for becoming a global purveyor of high quality services. The pages within this book serve as an open invitation to visit Antigua and Barbuda, where you can experience a little bit of paradise for yourself.

GUYANA AT 50

Reflection, Celebration and Inspiration

What is it that makes Guyana such a special place and why has it remained a secret to the rest of the world? The answer may lie in its unique magnificence. Could this be paradise, this land of many waters? The evidence would suggest that it is: Lush rainforests fed by hundreds of rivers and streams; more than one hundred waterfalls; blackwater lakes and creeks; sprawling savannahs; and spectacular mountain ranges. But Guyana also has a somewhat curious history, not least, because of the challenges it has faced over the past six hundred years. The First People were overcome by invading Europeans; then came the forced and coerced labour of the enslaved Africans; the indentured Chinese, Portuguese and Indians, followed by the challenges faced by successive political movements and ideologies which tried to grapple with Guyana's unusual combination of fundamental characteristics. Many who look at Guyana see only the misguided, external image generated by an over-zealous, ill-informed media and miss the true qualities for which this land of many peoples has become renowned: Its hospitality, considered among the finest in the world; its freshness; its unspoilt natural beauty; its contradictory people, curiously both naïve and sophisticated at the same time. They miss the sensual energy that pervades its atmosphere and fail to notice that, in Guyana, the skies seem bluer, the stars seem brighter and the air is blessed with an ambrosial succulence that stirs the senses and lulls the brain into forgetting day-to-day concerns.

TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO

Terrific and Tranquil

50th Anniversary of Independence Edition

Trinidad and Tobago is one of the most cosmopolitan countries in the world. Since the arrival of Amerindian peoples more than ten thousand years ago, this twin-island, Caribbean nation has become a melting pot of different races, traditions, customs and religions. European colonisers and settlers from Africa, India, China and the Middle East began arriving from the late 1400s. These disparate groups all played a part in influencing Trinidad and Tobago's diverse and unique culture. Birthplace of calypso music and the steel pan, and home to the world famous Trinidad Carnival, the nation boasts one of the most exclusive tourism destinations in the world (Tobago) and an emerging eco-tourism sector. Lavishly illustrated with over two hundred photographic images, it is published to commemorate the nation's 50th anniversary of independence (1962-2012).

TOBAGO

Clean, Green and Serene

2nd Edition

At first glance, Tobago truly is paradise on Earth, with its long stretches of sandy beaches, calm crystal-clear waters, balmy breezes and tropical sunshine. But the island has so much more to offer! Beneath its waters, it is surrounded by gently sloping coral reefs, plunging submarine cliffs and volcanic formations and the nutrient-rich seas teem with life. On land, a low-lying coralline plateau rises gradually to a central ridge of volcanic hills and a dense rainforest. Add to all of this the warmth and friendliness of its people, and the picture is complete. Depicts many aspects of life on this idyllic Caribbean island as well as featuring the history, traditions and local customs that make Tobago so unique. Includes more than 130 photographic images.

- Hardback, 160pp, ISBN 978-1-906190-49-1
- £20.00 (UK only) / US $36.00 (RoW)

JAMAICA

Absolutely

50th Anniversary of Independence Edition

Jamaican culture has touched every corner of the globe. Whether it's the pulsating rhythms of Bob Marley's reggae music, dancehall patois or the pounding footsteps of Usain Bolt, the sounds of Jamaica reverberate throughout the world. It is a country with a rich history – admittedly of severance and suffering – but, above all, with a will and capacity for survival and achievement. Jamaica is a rich diversity of cultures and traditions. It is rich in sounds and flavours; a feast for the senses. Jamaica is Rasta and reggae; rum and rhythm; jerk and jazz; coffee and calypso. With more than 200 photographic images, this book looks beyond the beach and gives an insight into the cultural, historical and social aspects of Jamaica.

DOMINICA

Nature Island of the Caribbean

2nd Edition

Dominica is a virtually unspoilt island whose volcanic peaks rise imposingly from the sea to create a magnificent landscape of forested mountains and river valleys. It is the most mountainous of the Lesser Antilles and has the distinction of being home to the tallest peak in the Eastern Caribbean. Dominica's reputation as the 'Nature Island of the Caribbean' is well earned because of its unspoilt landscape, natural beauty and abundance of wild flora and fauna. The country is also known for its many rivers ("one for every day of the year") and is renowned for its spectacular waterfalls. Consistently rated as a leading dive destination, Dominica's marine life is considered to be among the best in the world. It is also the foremost whale-watching destination in the Caribbean. Illustrated with more than 200 photographic images, it is an insight into one of the Caribbean's best-kept secrets.

GUYANA

2nd Edition

Known as the land of many waters (a name given by the country's first Amerindian inhabitants), Guyana is located on the north-eastern shoulder of South America and is the continent's only English-speaking nation. And the nation is culturally more Caribbean than Latin American. With a majority population of both African and Indian heritage, Guyanese society has been influenced by many other cultural traditions and customs and is, today, the quintessential Caribbean nation. Guyana has a range of ecosystems and landscapes that include vast areas of tropical rainforest, thousands of miles of rivers, more than one hundred waterfalls, eighteen lakes, four mountain ranges and sprawling savannahs. It is home to more than 800 species of bird, over 200 varieties of mammal and more than 200 species of reptile and amphibian. This lavishly illustrated book provides a spectacular and unrivalled insight into a unique Caribbean nation.

AN ACCIDENTAL LIFE

Harold Drayton

This is a portrait of a man who played a significant role in the history of education and health in the Caribbean. Harold Drayton's passionate and meticulous memoir offers, first, a precious account of colonial British Guiana. He maps the impact on him of his home, into which his birth was an accident, the influence of his working-class autodidact stepfather, of his schools, and of war and politics in the 1940s.

"Whether it was the cut and thrust of university debate, or the more frightening turbulence of Guyana's political leadership struggles of the 1960s, Drayton features as a critical witness and participant. An Accidental Life is the portrait of an era which defines the modern Caribbean and the long decisive process of decolonisation during the second half of the twentieth century."

Professor George Lamming

"Like Samuel Pepys' famous diary of plague, fire and revolution in seventeenth century London, Harold Drayton's An Accidental Life flourishes an unforgettable re-creation of the era of West Indian decolonisation, in the mid-twentieth century, through a meticulous study of promise and possibilities, corroborated by his personal experience with local leaders and turbulent conflicts and crises in his native Guyana."

IN PURSUIT OF BETTERMENT Five Stories from the Indian Diaspora

Khalil Rahman Ali

A collection of five historical fiction stories of families from India, Guyana and the Caribbean, Mauritius, East Africa, and South Africa. The five families share a compelling desire and drive to achieve betterment through education, hard work, and business, against the backdrop of the histories of the countries they originate from, leave, and those they reside in. Each story should resonate with readers of the Indian Diaspora and others, who have had to leave their homelands to explore better life chances in other countries.

The first story is set in India and London as the Shivwani family grows from humble beginnings, to international business success.

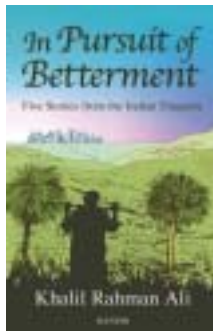

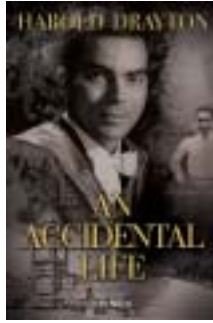

Little Guyana is the story of Inshan Khan who was sent to London to study Law. His extended family also had to leave Guyana due to a decline in the local economy, and became part of the emergence of "Little Guyana" in New York.

Murali Dharam of the beautiful island of Mauritius, known as "Chota Bharat" or Little India, also arrived in London to study Psychiatric Nursing. His romantic liaisons created family tensions both in Mauritius and England.

Manubhai Patel and his family were forcibly expelled from Uganda in 1972, and were faced with new challenges in Leicester, England, including racial harassment. Their Ugandan Asian community responded with sheer grit and determination to succeed. The fifth story is set in Durban, South Africa where the largest population of Indians have settled outside India. Professor Yusuf mentors two young PhD students seeking answers about their country's emergence from apartheid, to the pursuit of racial healing and harmony.

FATHERING A NATION Barbados and the Legacy of Errol Walton Barrow

Guy Hewitt

Foreword by the Prime Minister of Barbados

Introduction by the Rt. Excl. Sir Garfield Sobers

Barbados acquired the reputation of a country that punches above its weight. Ranked highest in the Caribbean it is also one of the highest globally as a developing country in the UN Human Development Index. It is also the birthplace of both the sugar cane industry in the then British Empire, then the most valued commodity, and rum, with the island producing some of the finest quality blends internationally. On 30 November 1966, this phenomenal heritage was given focus and direction by Errol Walton Barrow, the first Prime Minister and a National Hero of Barbados. Proclaimed the "Father of Independence", it was said that this close friend of the leaders of his era including Michael Manley, Pierre Trudeau, Lee Kuan Yew, and Seretse Khama, "founded Barbados a collection of villages and transformed them into a proud nation." This publication, with contributions from national, regional and international leaders and key speeches by Barrow himself, is a tribute to this extraordinary man who gave Barbadians the ability to hold their heads high and proud in this world, as a people worthy of respect. Like George Washington, he, and his name, are revered for his fathering a nation.

THE SHAPING OF A CULTURE Rituals and Festivals in Trinidad compared with selected counterparts in India, 1990-2014

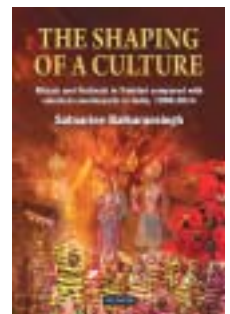

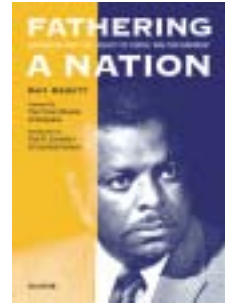

Satnarine Balkaransingh

Trinidad and Tobago reflects the dynamic rhythm of a cosmopolitan mix of cultures where the Indo-Trinidadian contribution is significant. This has its genesis in the 19th and early 20th centuries when more than 500,000 contract workers, from various regions of India, were shipped to the Caribbean to arrest the labour crisis in these plantation economies. These Indian indentured immigrants brought their religions, languages, rituals, festivals, cultural practices and other performative traditions and planted them in its fertile soil. This book uses a multidisciplinary approach to examine the changes being simultaneously experienced within these rituals and festivals in Trinidad and their counterparts in the respective geographical areas in the ancestral country, at the turn of the 21st century. It also examines the Indo-Trinidadians' influence on other festivals which they encountered in the local landscape. It is a guide to understanding the ethos and collective consciousness of the Trinbagonian lifestyle and the Indo-Caribbean diaspora, now scattered across the globe.

"A work of scholarly distinction, this book sets a new benchmark in Indo-Caribbean scholarship."

Clem Seecharan, Emeritus Professor of History, London Metropolitan University

YEARS OF HIGH HOPES

A Portrait of British Guiana, 1952-1956, from an American family's letters home

The Letters of Marian and Howard Irwin

Edited and with an Introduction by Dorothy Irwin

This startlingly detailed depiction of life in the capital city of Georgetown, British Guiana (now Guyana), sheds light on a seminal period of the colony's push toward nationhood. Evoking a time when letters were still the sole form of overseas communication, the book compiles the personal correspondence mailed to the United States by a young American couple during the three and a half years they made their home in Georgetown. Howard Irwin was the first of several Americans to arrive by way of a Fulbright teaching grant at Queen's College, the colony's leading secondary school for boys, where he taught biology. On the side, he joined a local symphony orchestra and ventured to outlying districts to conduct fieldwork that eventually led to a career in tropical botany. Confined by custom to the domestic sphere, Marian Irwin wrote about family life and the couple's sometimes baffling interactions with neighbours, tradesmen, school colleagues, and household help. Celebrating its fiftieth year of independence in 2016, Guyana is still in the process of healing wounds that opened during the early to mid-1950s. This unique collection of letters, annotated with extracts from historical documents and memoirs by Guyanese and others then on the scene, offers a finely textured glimpse of the capital before, during, and just after that tumultuous era.

"A miracle of retrieval ... offers a rare, firsthand view of the start of a Guianese political conundrum that still defies resolution." Frank Birbalsingh, Emeritus Professor of English and Senior Scholar, York University, Toronto

THE LIVES AND WORK OF TWO INDO-TRINIDADIAN

Influences of Indentureship, Evangelisation and Education

H. Joy Norman

Around thirty-five per cent of Trinidad and Tobago's population are of Indian descent. From 1845 to 1917, indentured labourers from India arrived in the former British colony to address the labour shortages following the abolition of slavery in 1838. This book examines the lives and work of two descendants of Indian indentured immigrants who lived and worked in the north of Trinidad. Samuel Ramsaran and Leslie Sankarsingh – father-in-law and son-in-law respectively – were raised in the Christian tradition, but each made different life choices in their careers. The colonial rulers were unconcerned with the welfare of, first, the enslaved Africans and, later, the indentured Indian labourers. It was, therefore, fortuitous that the Canadian Presbyterian missionaries intervened to improve the lives of, in particular, the subjugated East Indian population. Baptism into the Christian faith, however, was a requirement in order to receive a formal education, and it was this directive that provided the first steps towards a better way of life. The work of these two Indo-Trinidadians and, indeed, many of their contemporaries, was to be a significant contribution to an emerging independent nation.

TRAVELS WITH A HUSBAND

Patricia Mohammed and Rex Dixon

The title of this book is a pastiche of Robert Louis Stevenson's Travels with a Donkey (1879) and Graham Greene's Travels with my Aunt (1970), neither reference is literal but nonetheless some parallels may be drawn. Travels with a Husband is a journey about friendships and memories, about marriage, companionship and work, an autobiography in prose, verse and drawings, a travelogue, and an adventure in style. The authors have journeyed as reluctant tourists rather than as voyeurs and recall their encounters from Australia, India, Namibia, the Caribbean, the United Kingdom and the Netherlands. This book is also autobiographical because it records a creative and intellectual partnership of over two decades captured through essays, vignettes, poetry, doggerel, drawings and individualised postcards. Some of the verse makes no pretence at poetry but are nonsense rhyme, inscribing in memory a place, event, people or time. Because it deals with travels over two decades, it is also about a development of styles and perception over this period. Illustrated throughout with nearly one hundred original works of art

THE NEW CONQUISTADORS

The Venezuelan Challenge to Guyana's Sovereignty

Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Guyana

In its attempt to grab more than half of Guyana, Venezuela has relied persistently on fabrications, distortions, propaganda – and on wealth and power. This booklet (in English and Spanish) provides the facts withheld from the Venezuelan people. It reveals the reality of the Venezuelan crusade during the first fifty years of Guyana's Independence. It shows how, once victims themselves, Venezuela has become the new 'Conquistador' in relation to Guyana.

THAT TIME IN FOREIGN

Hilary Robertson-Hickling

That Time in Foreign was born out of a series held in 2006 at The University of the West Indies (UWI), Mona Campus. Seventeen presenters traced their experiences as migrants from Jamaica and other Caribbean countries destined mainly for the United Kingdom, the United States and Canada. The presenters delineated their time abroad for periods ranging from 5-35 years or more with the experiences of loss, joy, bereavement, success, achievement and nostalgia. For many, the word 'foreign' denotes opportunities for making a better life, escape from poverty, and the experience can either confirm the best and/or provide experiences of racism, disappointment, mental illness or triumph. This book provides a space for people to speak in their own voices; activists, artists, academics. They speak to each other, but also to a larger audience – primarily from a different generation – some of whom have not yet spent any time in 'foreign'.

TAKING IT TO THE MAX

An Autobiography

Maxie Hayles

An autobiography of the life, times and adventures of Maxie Alphonso Hayles, a community and human rights activist who eventually settled in Birmingham, England, where he has lived and worked for the past fifty-six years after his early Jamaican upbringing. Maxie Hayles has spent most of his adult life fighting for social justice and equality both in Britain and abroad and has achieved a lot in that time. As a devout Christian with a firm belief in humanity, he has never wavered from 'the struggles' in wanting to make the world a better place.

THE BLACK COSMETICS KINGS

Tony Wade, MBE

Tony Wade and his business partners, Len Dyke and Dudley Dryden, pioneered the development of the Black hair care industry in Britain. His vision influenced the spirit of enterprise in the Diaspora community. This story demonstrates an unswerving belief in self-worth and the community of a people, as they managed the challenges of the time. This story clarifies how the dynamism of self-help and self-reliance can remove barriers to progress.

AFTER SLAVERY: INDIAN INDENTURED LABOURERS

British Guiana, 1838 to 1917

Dr Bishundut R. Singh

Much has been written about the ravages and evils of Britain's colonial past; fraud, force and injustice litter the historical landscape on which the nation was built. And this is not just another tome about 'man's inhumanity to man'. What is different about this book is its in-depth exposition of the events and issues – based largely on original and unpublished sources – that informed and shaped the history of indentured immigration to British Guiana. While other works have addressed the various aspects of indenture in the former colony, many neglect to provide a comprehensive study of the views of those who were actually responsible for formulating and implementing immigration policies. This book attempts to fill that gap.

I NEVER SAID GOODBYE

Reynold Burrowes

The story of one man's return to Guyana. His return was thirty-five years in the making, back to the country he never expected to leave; a place he thought would always be home. Reynold Burrowes travelled to Guyana hoping to reconnect with family members and old friends. The visit exceeded all expectations and was both eye-opening and overwhelming. But, despite his best efforts to re-engage, he felt like an outsider. This memoir tells a familiar tale of those who dream of returning 'home', but whose nostalgic voyage of discovery isn't always what they hoped it would be.

CHILDREN OF WATOOKA

A Story of British Guiana

Steve Connolly

Set within the rainforest village of Watooka, the personal stories of the Canadian ex-pat Connolly family are entwined with those of the Guyanese people in the mid-20th century. The ties between Guyana and Canada, through the bauxite/aluminium industry, are the main feature.

FROM TOP MOUNTAIN

Bishop Dr Joe Aldred

Joe Aldred was born in the rural district of Top Mountain located in the hills of St Catherine in Jamaica. Most of the inhabitants were poor, and for those who wanted to improve their lives, the choice was to either move to the island's capital or migrate overseas. From Top Mountain is the story of Joe's journey from humble beginnings in Jamaica, through the challenges of migration and settlement in Britain, to the status of community and religious leader, broadcaster and writer.

RECYCLING A SON OF THE BRITISH RAJ

Peter Ramrayka

Peter Ramrayka was born in what was then colonial British Guiana. The grandson of indentured Indian labourers, he was brought up to believe that Britain was the 'Mother Country'. With a steely ambition to become a lawyer, he travelled to England in 1961 with the intention of returning 'home'. Fresh-faced and eager, he soon discovered that the 'Mother Country' was a place where people of colour faced discrimination and victimisation.

THE ART OF MALI OLATUNJI Painterly Photography from Antigua and Barbuda

Mali Olatunji and Paget Henry

This masterful photographic work on Antigua and Barbuda goes beyond all earlier attempts to capture this twin-island state in images. In addition to their images of home, these photographs also take account of the migratory experiences of Antiguan and Barbudans, and thus include powerful images of New York and London. Adding even more to the riches and power of this book is the engaging story that it tells about the life of the maker of these photographs and his unique aesthetic development.

JAMAICANS IN NOTTINGHAM Narratives and Reflections

Norma Gregory

A collection of personal and reflective narratives of life from individuals of Jamaican heritage who have contributed to the spirit and life of the city and its surrounding areas from the 1940s to the present day. It includes witness accounts relating to many significant events in the history of Nottingham that directly affected Jamaican communities, including the race riots of 1958 and 1981 and the miners' strikes of the 1980s.

CASE DISMISSED!

Gloria Cameron, MBE

Gloria Cameron came to Britain from Jamaica as a young woman. She endured and overcame the discrimination she met on arrival to bring up six children. Educated in her place of birth and the UK, she embarked upon a career in community work where she devoted her life to helping others. After many years of service, she was falsely accused of wrong-doing, but within two days the case against her was dismissed. Gloria's story is also an historical account of Jamaicans coming to Britain, achieving success and, for some, being brought down by unknown forces.

"... a non-patronising, non-sentimental and certainly a non-pathological account of her experience as a Caribbean migrant mother living, surviving and bringing up six children in London."

GLIMPSSES OF THE SUGAR INDUSTRY

The Art of Garnet Ifill

The sugar industry in Trinidad and Tobago longer dominates the landscape as it had done for more than two centuries. By the middle of the 20th century, most of the elements of the industry were undergoing significant changes. At this critical juncture, photographer Garnet Ifill decided to capture the fading heritage.

GLIMPSSES OF A GLOBAL LIFE

Shridath Ramphal

This memoir involves a cast of the world's leading characters and the central role Shridath Ramphal played alongside them in issues such as ending apartheid in South Africa, bringing Zimbabwe to independence, and the release of Nelson Mandela. Leaders from every continent engaged with him as the longest serving Secretary-General of the Commonwealth (1975-1990). The core of the book is concerned with the fifteen years he served as Commonwealth Secretary-General, for eleven of which Margaret Thatcher was Britain's Prime Minister.

THE PRICE OF CONSCIENCE Howard Noel Nankivell and labour unrest in the British Caribbean in 1937 and 1938

Brinsley Samaroo

The British Empire was created by thousands of public officers who were despatched from London to carve out an empire over which 'the sun would never set'. The vast majority of administrators expanded the Empire with little thought about the welfare of the colonised peoples. This biography tells of an exception to this rule. It is the story of a maverick senior public officer who dared to let conscience be his guide and suffered the consequences.

A.N.R. ROBINSON
In the Midst of it

The Autobiography of Former President & Former Prime Minister of the Republic of Trinidad and Tobago

A.N.R. Robinson rose from humble origins in Tobago to become a national, regional and international leader. His life story has been truly inspirational. Nonetheless, it has not been an easy life; he has faced his share of challenges, including some that have been life-threatening, but he has lived with solid principles rooted in justice for all and a deep faith in humanity. He served his people with distinction, never losing sight of the immense responsibility of public service.

EVOLUTION OF A NATION
Trinidad and Tobago at Fifty

This collection of lectures, by eight of the nation's leading thinkers, draws on years of research, political activism and mature reflection since independence in 1962. Colonial rule began during the 16th century, and although Independence was an improvement on the colonial regime, many of the vestiges of the past have persisted. However, during the last three decades, these issues have been increasingly addressed and the nation has now reached the point at which detailed information and analysis can be provided by its own national leaders of thought.

BENEVOLENT NEUTRALITY
Indian Government Policy and Labour Migration to British Guiana 1854-1884

Basdeo Mangru

First published in 1987, this is a detailed study of the migration of Indian labourers overseas and their living and working conditions under the indenture system. Based largely on unpublished sources, it analyses the socio-economic, political and cultural factors which induced a traditionally non-migratory people to leave their motherland for service in distant sugar colonies. Includes a major pioneering study of Indian women migrants.

THE GREAT MARCUS GARVEY

Liz Mackie

One of the greatest Black leaders of the twentieth century, Marcus Garvey was a man of extraordinary intellectual and organisational abilities who brought millions of peoples from the African diaspora together in an attempt at self-liberation. His ideas spread to Europe, Africa and the Caribbean; to every place where Black people lived under the imperialist system of white rule. There are few figures of the twentieth century who can be said to have envisaged so much, completed so little and inspired so many as Marcus Garvey.

WHAT BEING BLACK IS AND WHAT BEING BLACK ISN'T

Jacob Whittingham and Biscuit

Black people are succeeding in areas that the world never expected, yet there's a flipside to all this: around 70 per cent of teenagers murdered in London are Black; half of all Black families are headed by a single parent; and 12 per cent of the UK prison population is Black. This book is a bold and honest approach to the problems that exist inside the Black community.

THE WEST INDIANS Portrait of a People

Jacques Compton

Renowned Brazilian sociologist, cultural anthropologist and historian, Gilberto Freyre stated that when the Africans arrived they ceased being African. Instead, they were "West Indian Blacks" who were slaves being moulded into what the Europeans required ... labour for their plantations. This work examines Freyre's contention and also looks at the forces and methods used by the Europeans in what the author calls the "de-Africanisation of the Africans" and the creation of the West Indians.

LEST WE FORGET

The Experiences of World War II West Indian Ex-Service Personnel

Robert N Murray

The West Indian contribution during World War II is an overlooked chapter in the history of the Allied war effort. Little or nothing is known about the heroics, sacrifices and the harsh treatment endured by men and women from the Caribbean who were serving what was then 'the Mother Country'. This book tells their story through personal recollections, and highlights their contribution to that conflict, and the problems encountered after settlement in Britain before the arrival of the Windrush.

- Paperback, 192pp, ISBN 1-870518-52-7
- £11.95 (UK only) / US $18.00 (RoW)

THE AXE LAID TO THE ROOT

The Story of Robert Wedderburn

Martin Hoyles

Wedderburn was one of the key campaigners against slavery at the beginning of the 19th century. He campaigned for equality in England and freedom for the slaves in the West Indies.

- £8.95 (UK only) / US $14.00 (RoW)

THE STATE OF BLACK BRITAIN, Vol. 1

Dr Aaron Haynes

The street disturbances of 1981 heightened the public debate on race relations throughout Britain, but the resulting tendency was to concentrate on treating the symptoms rather than the causes. Covering a range of subjects including education, housing and social services, this book gives a concise review of the issues underlying the development of the plight of Black people in Britain.

- Paperback, 160pp, ISBN 976-8163-01-1
- £8.95 (UK only) / US $14.00 (RoW)

THE STATE OF BLACK BRITAIN, Vol. 2

Dr Aaron Haynes

This second volume examines the absence of policies directed at the needs of the Black communities, and argues that the Thatcher revolution, with its emphasis on individualism and its rejection of community, did not only affect white society, but had a traumatic affect on the development of Britain's multi-coloured society. It concludes with a Black agenda for the year 2000.

ANDREW WATSON

The World's First Black Football Superstar

Tony Talburt

Foreword by Lord Herman Ouseley

Black footballers playing the game at the highest level is considered very normal but this was not the case one hundred and forty years ago. Guyanese-born Andrew Watson was captain of the Scottish national football team in 1881 in a game against England. He led them to a 6-1 victory in London – an achievement that still ranks as England's heaviest ever defeat on home soil. If this were all that Watson had been able to accomplish, most people would agree that he should be commended for being the world's first Black person to captain a national football team. But there was so much more. This book reflects upon the legend, legacy and pioneering endeavours of a truly great Black British football superstar.

HAND-IN-HAND HISTORY OF CRICKET IN GUYANA, 1865-1897

Volume 1: The Foundation

Clem Secharan

The first volume of a major study of the social history of cricket in Guyana from 1865 to 1966. It pursues the gradual evolution of the game from 1865 to the late 1890s in the context of the colony's ethnic and social diversity. It also explores the emergence of the Georgetown Cricket Club and its famous Bourda Ground. The book is a legacy project to mark the 150th anniversary of one of the great institutions in the region, the Hand-in-Hand Fire Insurance Company.

"... a unique scholarly study" Mike Atherton

"A work of scholarship that, in the manner of his mentor, C.L.R. James, goes deftly beyond the boundary crafting a superb portrait of Guyana in the late 19th century." Mike Brearley

INDIAN-CARIBBEAN TEST CRICKETERS AND THE QUEST FOR IDENTITY

Frank Birbalsingh

If West Indies Test cricket betrays divisive values of race, class and colour inherited from a colonial history of plantation slavery and indenture, it also reflects a paradoxical power of resistance to this colonial legacy. This book considers cricket's capacity, at least, in reducing, if not transcending, division through its focus on collective team activity in the quest for identity.

AN AFRICAN JOURNEY

Barbara Ellis

Anancy takes us on a journey through history and reveals the heroic achievements of the West African people and guides us through the traumas that were inflicted on his motherland by the European invaders from the 15th century onwards. He takes us back to 1492 and the arrival of Christopher Columbus on Ayiti (Haiti). The event was to have dire consequences for the inhabitants of the island, the Taino, and later the African continent. Anancy is at the heart of the resistance to the enslavement in the 'Recently Enslaved World'. Anancy uses his dual personality, as a man and a spider, to resist and torment the slave masters, while inspiring and supporting his brothers and sisters to end their enslavement.

WEST INDIAN HISTORY AND LITERATURE

Frank Birbalsingh

West Indian History and Literature offers a fresh view by West Indian authors themselves of a region known mainly for delights of its sun, sand and sea. The book not only examines problems of division in racial, ethnic, class and colour relations in the Anglophone Caribbean, it also reveals regional resources of imagination and creativity that have already produced, in Derek Walcott and V.S. Naipaul, two Nobel laureates in literature. While the volume recalls rare, perhaps forgotten texts by authors such as Eric Walrond (Tropic Death), Claude McKay (Home to Harlem) and memoirs by Joyce Gladwell (Brown Face Big Master), Lorna Goodison (From Harvey River) and Rachel Manley (Horses in her Hair), most chapters delve into works, mainly of fiction or poetry, from the mid-nineteenth century to the present day; and although, as elsewhere, women writers appeared long after male authors in the Caribbean, of eighty-one authors considered in the volume, twenty-nine are women.

- Paperback, 404pp, ISBN 978-1-910553-65-7
- £12.99 (UK only) / US $20.00 (RoW)

RIVER DANCER New Poems by Ian McDonald

Ian McDonald's new collection emerges as "blood emerges from a cut vein", so the author describes the process of writing them. This is his sixth collection in a literary career which has gradually gained strength and recognition over the years. In his 80s, his creativity, far from diminishing, reaches a new level of inspiration. In this late flowering of new poems, McDonald has added a significant dimension to his work. The poems describe a full range of his experiences of love, sadness, family, ordinary people, the places he has known and loved and, above all, his wife's garden and the great Essequibo river, the joys and bereavements and mysteries we all encounter, and the daily wonders of his long life. A special dimension of the poems is the love he wishes to express for his wife, Mary. As he writes, "She has for long been a large part of my life. How does one convey plainly what means nearly everything? ... I see her now, dancing by the river we love."

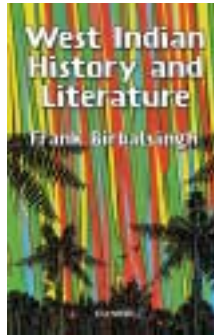

- Paperback, 112pp, ISBN 978-1-910553-26-8
- £7.99 (UK only) / US $12.00 (RoW)

GUYANA History and Literature

Frank Birbalsingh

This book examines Guyana's growth as a nation over three hundred and fifty years. It comprises reviews of works of history, biography, memoirs, fiction, even a play and an interview, and discusses politics, ethnicity, culture, African slavery, Indian indenture, and fortunes of the two best known Guyanese politicians – Dr Cheddi Jagan and Forbes Burnham. The volume offers the variety and scope of an anthology, perceptions and insights of a literary critic, elegance and style of fine writing, and the thrill of fresh revelation and discovery.

- Paperback, 352pp, ISBN 978-1-910553-31-2
- £11.99 (UK only) / US $18.00 (RoW)

WRITE BLACK, WRITE BRITISH From Post Colonial to Black British Literature

Edited by Kadija Sesay

An examination of the new Black British writers in Britain, born in Britain, writing about Britain from a specific British perspective. This collection puts the work of British-born writers of African and Caribbean parentage, who published first collections in the late eighties and nineties, under a magnifying glass. Themes of alienation, belonging, gender politics, identity, language, madness, and race reverberate yet with a peculiar variance than that of post colonial writers. Included are essays on Diran Adebayo, Patience Agbabi, Jackie Kay, Andrea Levy, Zadie Smith and Benjamin Zephaniah.

STRIVING FOR EQUALITY, FREEDOM AND JUSTICE

Embracing Roots, Culture and Identity: A Collection of Poetry

Zita Holbourne

A collection of poetry, quotes and art by award winning and inspiring London based poet, artist and activist Zita Holbourne. The book is a poetical journey through struggle and resistance, a story of strength, determination and love used to challenge discrimination and injustice, documenting important historical and current struggles from the Haitian Revolution to the Black Lives Matter Movement. This is combined with Zita's personal journey as an activist, mother and artist. Some of the poems in the book have won awards and others have been performed at awards ceremonies, some are dedicated to those who have inspired the author and others written in the hope of inspiring others. Zita performed 'A tribute to Nelson Mandela: Now You Are Free' at the official UK Memorial Service for Nelson Mandela after he passed away. 'Dare to Dream', a tribute to Martin Luther King; 'Equality in Our Lifetime', marking the 50th anniversary of the March on Washington initiated by Zita's campaigning organisation BARAC UK. This is a book not just for lovers of poetry but all those who want to make the world a better place and who stand for social justice and equality, combining the poetical with the political.

REFLECTIONS

Pamela Ali

Pamela was born and grew up in London in the 1940s and 50s. She left school in her early teens and would be the first to admit that life within the education system was an unhappy affair. However, since her late teenage years she felt compelled to express herself in verse and prose. This collection reflects upon issues as diverse as world affairs, Mother Nature and relationships with close members of her family.

COOLIE ODYSSEY

David Dabydeen

Dabydeen's second collection of poems probes the experience of diaspora, the journeying of peasant labourers from India to the Caribbean then to Britain, dwelling on the dream of romance, the impotence of racial encounter and the metamorphosis of language.

- Paperback, 56pp, ISBN 1-870518-69-1
- £5.99 (UK only) / US $10.00 (RoW)

CULTURAL CONUNDRUMS

Poems on Inter-Connectedness

Matahari V

This book is about seeing the world with different lenses so that 'different' is not 'alien'. The norms of the east and west sometimes bring about a clash of perceptions, create cultural conundrums. Much is lost in interpretation, much is misunderstood and walls emerge where a bridge could easily connect. Hence, we need to revisit the norm, redefine the boundary of tradition and modernity and reinvent systems that speak the common language of humanity.

- Paperback, 96pp, ISBN 978-1-910553-19-0
- £7.99 (UK only) / US $12.00 (RoW)

SIGNATURE CULTURES

Poems that awaken consciousness

Matahari V.

Poetry arising from the depths of one's personal experiences and personal living of life, allows us the luxury of revealing things that normally we would not share – just like a painting shows not just a scene, but also the emotions the painter contains within him/herself. These poems give us a glimpse into the anguish and questioning of a soul that feels life crowding in and equally feels the need to be true to herself. Joseph Philip Pinto CFC, Rome, Italy

- Paperback, 88pp, ISBN 978-1-906190-61-3
- £7.99 (UK only) / US $12.00 (RoW)

MEENACHI

Fourth Volume of New Poems

Rajandaye Ramkissoon-Chen

This collection probes the experiences of immigrants from India to Trinidad.

- Paperback, 120pp, ISBN 978-1-870518-79-6

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Thinking it Through; Making it Happen

Bhoendradatt Tewarie

Written from the point of view of the Caribbean, small island developing states and the developing and emerging world, this thoughtful book focuses on sustainable development solutions through human imagination, innovation, collaboration, participation and engagement. The challenges posed by climate change require a change of mindset, willingness to adapt and a disposition to adopt and customise new ways of thinking, behaving and acting to achieve more desirable results.

- Hardback, 316pp, ISBN 978-1-910553-36-7
- £14.99 (UK only) / US $22.00 (RoW)

BLACK DEATHS IN POLICE CUSTODY AND HUMAN RIGHTS

The Failure of the Stephen Lawrence Inquiry

David Mayberry

An insight into one of the most disturbing and under-reported issues to affect Britain's Black community. It highlights the limited commitment to fulfilling McPherson's recommendations and the value of diversity training to operational policing. It also questions the extent to which 'institutionalised racism' has been genuinely challenged.

- Paperback, 84pp, ISBN 978-1-906190-09-5
- £8.99 (UK only) / US $14.00 (RoW)

CORRUPTION

Law, Governance and Ethics in the Commonwealth Caribbean

Derrick V. McKoy

This book explains why it is important to study anticorruption regimes and sets out the existing state of knowledge on the subject. It explores why corruption exists, how governments are addressing the problem and includes the emerging law on the subject, including the law on bribery, misconduct in public office, judicial misconduct and anticorruption legislation.

- Paperback, 288pp, ISBN 978-1-906190-44-6
- £15.99 (UK only) / US $25.00 (RoW)

BARRISTER FOR THE DEFENCE

Trial by Jury and How to Survive it

Rudy Narayan

This book looks behind the mystique of wig and gown and provides a better understanding of the role and function of defence barristers. Described as one of the finest cross-examiners and advocates in the Commonwealth, Rudy Narayan was Britain's most renowned civil rights lawyer. The book includes excerpts of his cross-examinations during the Scarman Enquiry into the Brixton Riots in 1981.

NEARLY FIVE DECADES OF MULTICULTURAL PUBLISHING

Hansib Publications is recognised as one of Europe's leading multicultural publishing houses. Founded in London in 1970 by Guyanese-born Arif Ali, the publishing house has reflected and chronicled the struggles and achievements, the turmoils and frustrations, and the hopes and dreams of Britain's 'visible minority' communities.

Since the publication of its first title in April 1971, Hansib has published magazines such as West Indian Digest, Root Magazine and Asian Digest; newspapers such as West Indian World, Caribbean Times, Asian Times and African Times and scores of books dealing with Caribbean, Asian and African communities throughout the world.

In 1997, Hansib Publications sold its three weekly national newspapers and has since focused solely on book publishing.

Today, Hansib's publications are available throughout the world and it has over 250 published books and specialist titles covering a wide range of subjects including literary, creative and critical writings and studies as well as its signature Nations Series.

As a movement, Hansib has used its status and resources to fulfil its social responsibilities by encouraging, developing and funding community and combative initiatives, firmly in the belief that a strong community contributing to the common good will reap rewards and benefits for all of humanity. For nearly five decades, this engagement with and campaigning for minority communities included bursaries for talented individuals, legal advice and interventions, donations, sponsorship, recording and celebrating the achievements of individual activists, apprenticeships and work placements.

Sir Shridath Ramphal, Commonwealth Secretary-General (1975-1990) wrote that, "Hansib's current catalogue speaks eloquently of the range and quality of its publications, many of which would never have made it to the book shelves but for Arif's willingness, indeed wilfulness, in taking commercial risks to make this happen."

Hansib Publications is proud of its success in providing an outlet for the many voices that remain unheard; the latent talent that cannot get beyond the portals of established publishers; the personal narratives that are testimonies of struggle, survival and success; and the theses challenging current orthodoxies.

With a growing network of distributors and sales outlets, internationally, these voices are now available in bookshops, libraries, centres of learning and specialist outlets. They are also available from many online booksellers such as Amazon and Waterstones as well as from its own website – www.hansibpublications.com
